RED CROSS SOCIETY ANNUAL REPORT 1915 PROVINCE OF ALBERTA.

The President, R. B. Bennett, M.P., in his address, said that Alberta stood pre-eminently above all the other provinces in the Dominion in the matter of the amount of Red Cross work that has been done in proportion to the population.

The amount and quality of work sent to Red Cross headquarters had received the highest praise. He also mentioned about the opening of the Convalescent Home at Ogden, which is open to all Canadian soldiers.

From the Secretary's report the following items have been called:

Between 150 and 200 towns and villages and other districts are contributing either cash or supplies or both.

There are now (at the time of the annual meeting) 56 branches in the province with a large number of auxiliaries.

The aim of the Society is to establish local branches in every town, city and village in Alberta, and it should be noted that districts unable to send supplies need not hesitate to organize on that account, as money is one of the first needs of the Red Cross.

The Treasurer's report shows that during the year of 1915-16 was received $30,000 being sent to Head Office.

$6,584.33 was raised on Trifolgar Day for the British Red Cross Fund.

The Alberta branch also installed 129 beds in the Red Cross Hospital at Clevedon, England, and spent $512.75 towards their upkeep. $1,500.00 was given for the purchase of a Motor Ambulance by the Alberta Masonic Lodge. The women of Central Alberta donated $2,100.00 towards the purchase of a Motor Ambulance through the I.O.D.E at Innisfail.

The cost of running the different depots for the year was $2,233.28 and of this sum only $428.00 was expended in salaries.

All enquiries regarding the work will be cheerfully answered by the Calgary office.

Mr and Mrs. G. Wiltse of Consort, spent Sunday in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Lay and family of Edmonton, were the guests of the former's brother, R. M. Lay. Mr. Garnard Wiltse and sister of Gadsby, spent a few days here recently.

Mr. "Scotty" Johnston of Winnipeg, has been visiting friends here.

The prairie fire on Monday afternoon caused no little amount of excitement to those residing near the school, but by clever work on the part of the fire fighters, fortunately was checked before any great amount of damage was done.

Who said Rob. Lay wasn't a Marathon runner? We understand he covered the trail from town to Ione in 17 min. 45 1/2 sec.

LADY URSULA'S HUSBAND

BY FLORENCE WARDEN

Word, Look & Co., Limited

The simple gravity with which she whispered the well-known words struck her brother into momentary silence.

And before he could recover himself the door opened and Paul came in. It was amazing to the younger man to see how confidently the bridegroom bore himself. He came in with the air of a man who has been bored by being kept away from his bride by an impatient trifle.

"Well, am I too soon? Have you had your talk out?" he inquired in the most matter-of-fact manner in the world.

"No," said Lady Ursula, rising from the sofa with a smile, as if nothing unwelcome had happened. "There's no more to say—by which time the bridegroom bore himself. He came in with the air of a man who has been bored by being kept away from his bride by an impatient trifle."

"You are not going back with your brother?" he said, confidently.

"No, Paul."

The bridegroom turned civilly, but with an air of authority, to his brother-in-law.

"I think that settles the matter," said he.

The young man shrugged his shoulders.

"Yes, I suppose so," he said. Then he added bitterly, "I suppose there's nothing for me to do but to let her walk into misery with her eyes open."

In a moment Lady Ursula was beside him, expostulating gently.

"Don't say that, Tom. Don't say anything to hurt anything that you might be sorry for afterwards."

"There's no fear of that," said the young man abruptly. "All I'm sorry for is that I didn't know before what I know now. I would have locked you up in your own room till I'd seen this fellow safely out of the country."

"Oh, hush, hush!"

Paul, smiling and cool, said gently: "Let him talk. It will do him good to let off the steam a little. He knows that I can't have him up for slander, now that I'm one of the family."

The last words stung Lord Eastling to the quick. "Yes, that was the truth. This rascal, who was braving him, who was carrying off his own sister to certain unhappiness, was actually a member of his family by this unfortunate marriage. The young man walked, with an exclamation of rage and impatience, to the door. With his fingers on the handle he turned.

"I can't say anything more than I have said," he stammered out, addressing his sister. "It was my fault that you ever met this man, my fault for taking you to a house where the guests were not properly chosen. I feel that I have brought this upon you. If you won't go home with me now, I can't help it. But I shall never forgive myself."

He swung out of the room hastily, shutting the door. Lady Ursula flew to call him back, but Paul intercepted her, standing between her and the door.

He was looking grave and determined.

"You must choose," said he. "If you go out after him, you must go back with him. I've been insulted, grossly insulted, by this boy, and though he's your brother, I can't forgive him—yet."

There was a struggle going on within poor Lady Ursula's breast, between the old feelings of love and sympathy for the brother whom she had always loved, the brother who now represented to her all the old family feelings and interests against a new and untold world, on the one hand, and the new passion to which she had of late so innocently given herself up.

For a moment she hesitated, then bursting into tears and covering her face, she whispered:

"If I must choose, Paul, you know."

W. N. U. 1193

I can only choose one way, the way I've chosen."

He was quick to take advantage of her yielding mood.

"Listen, Ursula," said he gently. "I want you to listen. Supposing I were really the rascal your brother pretends that I am, what would you do then? For I should be your husband, you know, just the same."

She looked up in a sort of terror. "Oh, Paul, don't say such things. They are terrible!"

"Well, I should like to have an answer. I want to understand your point of view."

She dashed her tears obediently away, and tried to answer quietly, as she wished.

"And if, after all, he proves to be a wrong 'unt' demanded Paul. 'What would you do then?'"

Lady Ursula paled, looked down, while a slight tinge of pink color spread gradually over her face and throat.

"I should pray for him," she whispered softly.

It seemed to her instinctively from the beginning of her acquaintance with Paul that she had a religious feeling were not so keen as her own, although she had no idea what a gulf lay between the mind of the man she loved and her own.

But she had carefully avoided any talk that could offend or bore him by insisting on the topic which he did not care for, and so it happened that this modest whisper came upon him with the force of a revelation.

For a moment he said nothing; then he bent down and kissed her hair.

It seemed to the innocent woman that this was an act of homage to her beliefs. It was not exactly that, but it was the nearest approach to it that the rascal Paul Payne, alias Syd Tomkinson, had ever performed.

CHAPTER IV.

On the following morning, when Paul and Lady Ursula were at breakfast in their sitting room, Paul who spoke excellent French, asked the waiter whether the gentleman who had come into the room on the previous night was staying at the hotel.

A flush of interest and surprise came into the eyes of the bride as she heard this question, and the answer, which was in the negative. As soon as they were alone, she looked up at her husband and said:

"Tom's gone back to England, of course. What else could he do, poor boy?"

Paul, good humored as he generally was, could not yet speak of his brother-in-law and his outrageous conduct with absolute equanimity.

"I hope he's satisfied with the amount of discomfort he's caused us," he commented rather dryly.

Lady Ursula looked across the table at her husband with timid but adoring eyes. Strong as her new love was, the tie of the old affection was as powerful as ever within her, and she was perfectly certain that her brother's action in pursuing them and in accusing Paul was only undertaken because of his profound conviction that his sister was in danger. But it was necessary to be careful. She was used to dealing gently with Paul's susceptibilities, for she knew that her own strong religious convictions were not shared by him, and that she would run grave risks of losing her influence over him if she were to insist on expounding her own views.

Tact had been supremely useful in the old home life at Wintressand, and it stood her in good stead now.

"He has been misled. He would never be intentionally disagreeable to anyone," she said softly.

"He's old enough," said Paul, "to use more judgment."

She made no comment. Indeed she felt convinced that there was much more to be said for her brother and his point of view than her husband was ready to admit. He did not show his displeasure by harshness, or even silence, but insisted on taking his bride for a walk along the boulevards, as he had proposed to do, he said that he must send off some telegrams to England, and suggested that she meanwhile should write to her people and complain of her brother's high-handed conduct.

Lady Ursula was submissive and gentle, although she looked, as she felt, bitterly disappointed. There was no doubt of her married life which would be the crown of her love had begun most inauspiciously, and it seemed to her that already she was discovering in Paul a certain coolness which his amiable manners and good temper had previously made it impossible for her to suspect in him.

But she was far from suspecting that Paul had intended from the outset to go out by himself that morning, and that he had an appointment of the most pressing nature to keep.

He took care, therefore, not to let her go with him, but slipped quickly out of the room, with an air of great haste, after which she felt to be perfunctory.

A chill went to her heart as she, sensitive to the slightest change in him, realized that he was anxious to get away, and that her wish would not avail to keep him at her side.

She went to the window, and saw him go down the street at a brisk pace, without a look behind.

Within a few minutes of his being out of sight of his wife, Paul got into a fiacre, and giving the driver an address on the boulevards, was taken quickly to a well known cafe, at the door of which he was saluted with a familiar nod and a few words of cord welcome by a couple of men, in court clothes of somewhat sporting cut.

Paul was easily recognizable as an Englishman of a type far removed from the best.

Irregular Attendance At Saskatchewan Schools

Proportion of High School Pupils to Public School Pupils in Saskatchewan

(Contributed by Norman F. Black, M.A., D.Paed., Regina)

In his report for 1914 the Minister of Education states that 2,842 pupils doing high school in the province and 2,299 in the high schools and colleges of the province. The total number of students above Grade 8 was therefore 5,141—the number enrolled in Grades 1 to 10 was 108,216. That is to say, for every 1,000 pupils in these grades there were in Saskatchewan 48 pupils doing more advanced work. This proportion is below that of 27 States in the American Union, according to the statistics of 1910. In these 27 States there were from 56 to 118 high school pupils for every 1,000 pupils enrolled in the elementary schools.

A chief cause for the relatively small proportion of Saskatchewan school children that are receiving a secondary education is irregular attendance in the elementary grades. This results in such slow progress that the children reach the age limit for compulsory education whilst still in junior classes and drop out of school.

Our Losses

Many Former Boy Scouts and Scoutmasters Who Have Fallen at the Front

Our brotherhood has sustained very heavy losses during the year. Of our commissioners, not less than 338 are on service, and of these, seven have fallen in action.

We have between 25,000 and 30,000 of our members serving with the colors. These generally have won a most gratifying name for the military value of the Scouts' training, as well as individual honor for themselves.

(Including our V.C.'s, but it is only natural that out of such a force we should have to deplore the loss of a very large number of promising young comrades.)

They have, however, done well. Their sacrifice is not thrown away. Their splendid example has set a standard for others to follow, and in valuing a living memorial to themselves in the form of an efficient, duty-bound, young citizenhood.

The actual losses among our Scoutmasters have been exceedingly heavy, and it is this that threatens the movement with a serious set-back after the war, unless we take adequate steps to discount it.

On the other hand, I feel that wonderful possibilities lie before us if we only put ourselves in position to deal with them.

But what we shall need most will be a supply of good officers directly peace is proclaimed.

To this end we are already enlisting the interests of a number of sympathetic by making them honorary associates of the movement, under the title of "Old Scouts," in the hope that they may help us to fill our gaps. We have been fortunate in securing the services of 181 gentlemen to act in the place of commissioners absent on service, and a goodly number of Scoutmasters have joined us.

But the full supply of officers is a matter of vital importance to our ultimate expansion of success.

A writer in a London, Eng., newspaper writes: "Do you see that row of boots and shoes in a shop window? Do you think the Princes would have their boots sold and heated, would you? But the Queen has her boots and boots sent to be mended, the same as you would yours, m'am."

Shorter Tonnage is the Prediction

When the estimates of the department of trade and commerce were taken up in the house, Sir George Foster frankly stated that during the coming season there was likely to be a considerably greater average of ocean tonnage than last year. It probably will be necessary, he said, to do many things we do not want to do and pursue avenues of trade may be interrupted.

Farm Land Values Increasing in U.S.

Farm land values are increasing almost by leaps and bounds. Figures made public by the U.S. department of agriculture show that values for the United States taken as a whole increased 25.7 per cent. in the past four years and 11.6 per cent. last year. The figures are based upon reports from the department's field agents.

Note and Comment

In Sir Edward Grey's long note to the U. S. government, explaining and defending the action of the allied navies in regulating neutral commerce with Germany, there is a touch of irony. Sir Edward says the British government notes with sincere satisfaction the intimation of the U.S. government that it intends to undertake the task of championing the integrity of neutral rights, and he adds,

The first act of this war was the unprovoked invasion by the enemy of neutral territory—that of Belgium—which he was solemnly pledged by treaty to protect. Uncle Sam has been a bfgard in his championship

Water With Meals

Most people are better off for taking some water with their meals. Water is an aid to the chemical activities of digestion, and is furnished by the body itself in large amount. The gastric juice, of which the stomach makes about one and a half pints per meal, is made up of nine hundred and ninety-five parts of water per thousand. By drinking water with our meals we help to furnish a part of this water directly. Whether this should be a part of a glass or several glasses can only be determined by the experience of its effects by the individual. Such water should not be taken ice cold nor very hot. A healthy appetite, the appetite for hunger, like a healthy mental appetite, needs no sensational drinks.

GOOD REPORT

Doctor Proved Value of Postum

Physicians know that good food and drink, properly selected, are of the utmost importance, not only for the relief of disease but to maintain health even when one is well.

A doctor writes, "I count it a pleasure to say a good word for Postum with which I have been enabled to relieve so many sufferers, and which I count, with its valued companion Grape-Nuts, one of the daily blessings."

"Coffee was banished from my own table some time ago and Postum used regularly in its place." (Both tea and coffee are injurious to many persons, because they contain the subtle, poisonous drug, caffeine.)

"I frequently find it necessary to instruct patients when they take Postum for the first time to be quite sure that it is properly made according to direction, then it has a clear, soft brown color and a rich, snappy taste, as well as health giving qualities."

The above letter, received over twenty years ago, is fully confirmed by a recent letter from the doctor, in which he says:

"It is a pleasure to render a good report covering a product of which I am so enthusiastic a friend."

"I am using in my home your Postum Cereal in both its forms. And, what is more, I am having it used in the families of several patients in which there are children, and all are in endorsing the fine qualities of your admirable product."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Postum comes in two forms: Postum Cereal—the original form—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder—dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both forms are equally delicious and cost about the same per cup.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

Wheat 4,000 Years Old

Came From Ruins in Egypt, But is Kept in Texas

When the late John Cardwell of Austin, Tex., was United States consul at Cairo, Egypt, he sent to his old friend, Col. E. P. Holland, of Dallas, a small quantity of wheat that he had taken from the tomb of one of the ancient kings in newly explored ruins upon the banks of the Nile.

This wheat was known to be more than 4,000 years old. The glass container which holds the grain is hermetically sealed. To all outward appearances the wheat is just as sound as the day it was flayed from the head in the long ago, when the earth was inhabited by a civilization that is now forgotten. The grains are plump and large.

"I have been told that the grains would probably germinate if planted, but I have never tried any of them," Col. Holland said.

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Stodder's (Graves') Worm Exterminator.

Mrs. Brindle—Now Mary. I want you to be careful. This is some very old table linen—been in the family for over two hundred years—and I don't want you to wash it, you needn't worry. I won't tell a soul, and it looks as good as new anyway.

Selecting Eggs For Hatching
Select eggs from only the best hens in the flock.

Eggs for hatching should not weigh less than two nor more than two and one-half ounces. They should not be washed, as this lowers their vitality.

The eggs should be gathered two or three times daily and placed in a dry place where the temperature is below 70 degrees F.

Keep the eggs on their sides and turn twice daily before putting them into the incubator or under the hen.

Cold eggs that have transparent shells or a rough appearance; long, pointed or short, rounded eggs should not be used.

The eggs uniform in size, as they absorb the heat to a better advantage. Hold no eggs for hatching purposes longer than two weeks before putting them into the incubator or under the hen.

CHILDHOOD

CONSTIPATION

Mrs. Andrew G. Lund, Hughenden, Alta., writes: "Two of my babies were very much troubled with constipation and I tried several remedies without success. A neighbor advised me to try Baby's Own Tablets and they were so satisfactory that now I would use nothing else." The Tablets never fail to cure constipation and they may be given to the youngest child with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Observant Manager (catching his clerk kissing his daughter)—Now, now, young man, I don't pay you for that kind of work.

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. High mortality among children is traceable to worms. These sap the strength of infants so that they are unable to maintain the battle for life and succumb to weakness. This preparation gives promise of health and keeps it.

Saskatchewan Weed Law

By an amendment to the Noxious Weeds Act the Saskatchewan legislature has placed upon every municipal council the duty of appointing inspectors to enforce the provisions of the act. Neglect to do this leaves each member of the council liable to a fine not exceeding $25. For the better enforcement of the law the province has been divided into six districts and a field man appointed over each. It will be the duty of these men to visit weed inspectors and councils and take such action as may be necessary to have the law enforced.

After Ten Years of Asthma Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy proved the only relief for one grateful user, and this is but one cure among many. Superstition Increasing in Germany

The Munich correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt describes the recent prosecution of various types of occultists who have driven a flourishing trade during the war. Astrologers, soothsayers and palmists have reaped a golden harvest. A gigantic industry has been built upon the superstitions of the people, and the adepts in various towns are in touch with each other and with a central organization. These scoundrels are held responsible for numerous cases of mental breakdown and suicide.

Ask Around You For the Proof

THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ALWAYS CURE KIDNEY DISEASE

In Every Neighborhood You Will Find People Cured of Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy or Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lac Bouchette, Lac St. Jean, Que. (Special Agent for the West), well known and highly respected here, has issued a short, concise statement in regard to Dodd's Kidney Pills. It is as follows:

"I have found that Dodd's Kidney Pills are an excellent remedy and that they cure kidney disease, rheumatism and indigestion."

Mr. Fleurie has received such benefit from Dodd's Kidney Pills that he wants to encourage others to know how to find relief. He feels it is his duty to his fellowman.

If you inquire among your neighbors you will find scores of people who have found in Dodd's Kidney Pills relief from some form of kidney trouble. It may have been the dry, itching skin, dizziness, nervousness and inability to get refreshing sleep that mark the earlier stages of the disease, or it may be diabetes, dropsy, rheumatism, heart disease, or some other of the dangerous diseases that mark its advanced stages.

You will find that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble, no matter where or in what form it is found. Ask your neighbors for the proof.

You never can tell. A man may be perfectly honest and still have a different umbrella every time it rains.

$6.40 For Penny Paper

A Belgian banker who has been permitted by the German administration to come to Paris on business connected with relief work, states that the chief luxury of life in Brussels is the purchase of London and Paris newspapers, which can be had easily if one will pay the exorbitant price demanded.

The Times of London is worth 32 francs ($6.40), the Temps of Paris 22 ($4.40), the Matin of Paris 20 ($4.00) and the other French papers 18 ($3.60). The penalty for being caught with one of these papers is not severe and is usually not enforced against persons of "good standing, but the penalty for the agency which distributes the papers would be very severe.

The German officials have had no success in running down the distributors, so it is thought that perhaps German soldiers have their hand in it, for the profits on a couple of hundred copies of the Times each day are considerable.

The taste for frog eating is increasing in America. Last year 6,000,000 frogs were placed on the markets of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The food which is taken to nourish the body and keep up vigor and strength becomes a poison to the system when digestion fails. You feel drowsy after meals, lose appetite, suffer from constipation, have pains in the bowels and through the body. Instead of being digested, the food ferments and gives rise to gas or wind on the stomach, which crowds about the heart, causing suffocating feelings and derangements of the heart's action.

Resort to aids to digestion cannot afford more than temporary relief, for the trouble is caused by torpid, sluggish action of the liver and bowels. These organs must be awakened so that they will filter the poisons from the blood and remove from the system the accumulating waste matter.

Here lies the cause of indigestion and dyspepsia, and neglect only leads to chronic and complicated derangements, which destroy all comfort and shorten life.

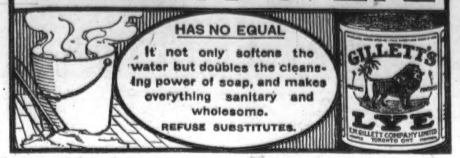

The ideal treatment for indigestion is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because they promptly and positively remove the cause of trouble. Acting directly and specifically on the liver, kidneys and bowels, they cleanse the system of all impurities, and their occasional use keeps these filtering and excretory organs regular and active. The blood is purified, pains and aches disappear, and such derangements as indigestion, constipation, biliousness, back-ache and kidney derangements are cured.

SPRING REMINDERS OF RHEUMATISM

Raw, Damp Weather Starts the Pains, But the Trouble Lies In the Blood

Spring weather is bad for rheumatic sufferers. The changes from mild to cold, the raw, damp winds start the aches and twinges, or in the more extreme cases, the tortures of the trouble going. But it must be borne in mind that it is not the weather that causes rheumatism. The trouble is rooted in the blood—the changeable weather merely starts the pains. The only way to reach the trouble and to cure it is through the blood. The poisonous rheumatic acids must be driven out. Liniments and rubs may give temporary relief, but cannot possibly cure the trouble. The sufferer is only wasting time and money with this kind of treatment and all the time the trouble is becoming more deeply rooted—harder to cure. There is just one speedy cure—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the impure, acid-tainted blood. They purify and strengthen it and thus root out the cause of the rheumatism. Here is strong proof of the above statements. Mr. Michael Personage, Fenelon, Man., says: "My mother suffered several years with rheumatism. We tried a number of remedies but they all failed to cure. Then we got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using them for some time she was completely cured and has had no sign of the trouble since."

When Rheumatism Strikes the Heart It Kills—"Nerviline" The Cure

Effect of Nerviline on Chronic Cases is Almost Magical

Exposure to wet or cold is apt to bring on an attack. The muscles stiffen, the joints swell, and exertion, wings a excruciating twinges.

Often the pain shifts from one to another, and this is dangerous, as the heart is apt to be attacked. Death as a rule follows a heart attack.

The pain of rheumatism is quickly rubbed away with Nerviline.

This is a swift, lasting and safe way to cure Rheumatism. You can depend on Nerviline. It has the power, the penetrating force, the control over pain that is so essential to a rheumatic remedy.

NERVILINE

A politician who was seeking the votes of a certain community Ohio to the end that he might be sent to Congress, thought it worth while to make mention of his humble origin and early struggles.

"I got my start in life by serving in a grocery store at $3 a week, and yet I have managed to save," he pronounced.

Whereupon a voice from the audience queried:

"Was that before the invention of cash registers?"—New York Times.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than in all other diseases put together, and until the last few years great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any cure that will cure Catarrh for men and women.

A Cure for Fever and Ague.—Disturbance of the stomach and liver always precedes attacks of fever and ague, showing derangement of the digestive organs and deterioration in the quality of the blood. Betty—Shall I always have to do things for myself?

Mother—Yes, dear.

Betty—Then I don't think I shall like life.—Punch.

Lots of testimony to prove Nerviline's certainty to cure. The following letter is from Mr. E. G. Sauter, Port of Spain, Trinidad:

"Last year I was severely troubled with rheumatism. I had it in my arms, shoulders and knees. The pain was at times excruciating, and laid me up so that I couldn't work. I went to Smith Brothers' Drug Store and was advised by the manager to use 'Nerviline.' That was excellent advice. I used Nerviline as directed and was cured, completely cured of every trace of my old enemy."

Once you use Nerviline you'll realize it's different from all the others—that it contains something that gets right "at" the pain the minute you rub it on. The large 50 cent family size is the most economical—get it today, or else the 25 cent trial size. Sold by dealers everywhere, or the Catarrh House Co., Kingston, Canada.

Intend to Retain the South Sea Islands

That Japan is colonizing and apparently intends to retain the South Sea Islands, captured during the present war from the Germans, was the statement made in London recently by Dr. Frederick Starr, professor of Anthropology, University of Chicago, who was en route to Chicago from the Orient after six months' research work in Japan and Korea.

"Japan," said Dr. Starr, "has no intention of withdrawing from the Ladrones or Marshall Islands which she has taken from Germany and which lie about midway between the Philippines and Hawaii. She has already undertaken extensive schemes with reference to the postal service, telegraphs and cables of these possessions. She is sending settlers in quantity to them."

War and Forest Fires

Running Risk of Starting Fires is Playing into Hands of Enemy

Canada, is at war and the enemy has to be fought on land and on sea in Europe, Asia, Africa, and Canada. In Canada we might fight, among other ways, by keeping our production of necessities up to the highest point and by conserving our resources. One of the most valuable resources is our forest wealth. Timber will be in demand to rebuild ruined Europe and to carry on our own development, made more strenuous by the war. If all our forests were to burn down our enemies would be delighted. It would mean the crippling of Canada. Are Canadians going to do anything to delight their enemies? If you who go into the forests do not desire this then do your part in keeping down forest fires this spring and summer by seeing that your camp fire is drenched with water, and that you do not carelessly toss away burning matches or cigar or cigarette stubs before they are fully extinguished. Every acre of forest burned makes it that much harder for the empire to win the war and delays to that extent our development after the war.

A trial of it will carry conviction to anyone who doubts its power to repair and heal.

"How do you make a distinction between popular and classical music?" asked the very young man.

"Oh, that's easy," answered the dispenser of home-grown philosophy. "It's popular if I enjoy it, and it is classic if I don't."

Application for Lease of Road Allowance or Surveyed Highway

Notice is hereby given that W. H. Poynter of Monitor P.O. has made application to the Minister of Public Works, Edmonton, for lease of the following road allowance or surveyed highway, viz.,

The road allowance running north and south between section nine (9) and ten (10) in township thirty seven (37) range five (5) west of the 4th meridian.

Any protest against the granting of the above mentioned lease must be forwarded to the Minister of Public Works, Edmonton, within 30 days from the date of this notice.

W. H. POYNTER,
May 2nd, 1916.

Guards at the detention camp at Lethbridge have discovered a second tunnel leading from one of the other German prisoners' camps. It was 25 feet long and had evidently been abandoned. It would look as if there was gross carelessness on the part of the authorities in charge of the camp.

Germany is finally convinced the big Dutch liner Tubantia which was sunk on March 16th was torpedoed and not sunk by a mine and consider replacing it by a larger vessel from the Hamburg-American fleet. It would look very much as if Germany wanted to stand in well with Holland when they are ready to give away ships from their much depleted mercantile fleet.

Prairie fires in the vicinity have been very numerous this spring and considerable damage has been done. We think if an example was made of some of the parties who were responsible for starting these fires people would be more careful in burning off their land and would be equipped with the required number of men and the proper appliances for fighting the fire.

The Dominion government has decided to loan the Canadian Northern $15,000,000 and the Grand Trunk $8,000,000 the smaller sum going to the more needy of the two. It is not so very long ago that the Canadian Northern dipped into the Treasury for a large sum and it was understood at that time that they would be able to get along with the amount they got then, and in the event of their not being able to do so, the government would step in and take possession. But here they come again and the amount above mentioned is being handed over to them without any strings attached to it or any security given. "Bill" and "Dan" seem to be the real government of the country.

Anti-Kaiser feeling is on increase

Neutral visitor to Germany is astounded at what is seen. Says signs point to, clash between those for and against the Emperor.

Enemy making another attack before Verdun with large army

After 77 days of battle, fighting is almost equal in violence to that of the beginning of March. The principal effort is directed against Dead Man's Hill, but east of the Meuse the Germans delivered four attacks on a 2,000 yard front. The fighting is inconclusive.

Two German Submarines reported en-route for the American coast

New York, May 8.—News that two German submarines were on their way to the American coast under convoy of two commerce raiders, one of which chased the Fabre liner Venezia, was received to-day. Believed to have escaped from Kiel at the same time as the Grief, as four raiders got out at that time Captain of Liner denies report.

S.S. Cymric reported sinking.

London, May 8.—It is reported that the steamship Cymric is sinking. The Cymric sailed on April 29 from New York for Liverpool. She has been in the service of the British government for some time. She had on board no passengers on her last trip.

MUCH-BOASTED GERMAN FLEET IS NOT THE DEAR OF THE HUNS

KAISER'S AMBITION WILL NEVER BE REALIZED

Huge Sums of Money Spent by Germany on Practically Useless Fortifications, Which Now Only Serve the Purpose of Protecting the Bottled Fleet in the Harbors

Fred T. Jane, a well known British naval historian, who died recently, was the writer of the following article:

"I had spent every mark in the same way that you English spent every shilling, our fleet would be as big as yours."

So said to me a German naval officer not long before the war, and he was literally true. German naval estimates were normally never equalled British ones; but the sum total expended on ships and coast defenses in the two countries was for years about the same.

The result, of course, is different. Acting on a thousand years of experience, we have, of course, a powerful fleet, and military afterward, put 19 shillings in the pound on ships, and the remainder on shore defenses at a few essential points.

Our argument (its exponents are known as the "Blue Water School") was, and is, that if you have ships enough to prevent the enemy leaving harbor, it is waste of money to build forts to defend a coast which he cannot attack. We have, of course, certain defenses at certain places, but these come mainly under the head of precautions against odd raiders who might chance to elude our blockade.

The Germans, on the other hand, are primarily soldiers. Soldiers at sea, they used to say, and the phrase is correct. Roughly, their original policy can be summed up as follows:

"We have only a very small coast line, and its waters are shallow. It is easily made impregnable. We therefore need no navy to speak of. This in its day was quite correct. But presently there came a time when the German merchant marine expanded, and the Kaiser—may be fancying himself very much in the uniform of an honorary British admiral of the fleet—conceived naval ambitions.

For aught I know, something one can read in any old navy list may also have started him. The statement I speak of is in the alphabetical list of names, and two of these, one following the other, are:

German, Kaiser, H. Fleet Paymaster, seniority, 6th November, 1901.

German Emperor and King of Prussia, His Imperial Majesty William II, K.G., G.C.V.O., Hon. Admiral of the Fleet, 2nd August, 1888.

One can not see, in the one or the other, how the "All Highest" would take the fact that common law, in the person of the emperor of the Navy List put on top of Him another bit of common law. There is no saying how far a blameless old P.P. (Fleet Paymaster) on account of his godfathers and godmothers having given him a name which alphabetically precedes W. have unwittingly contributed to the present great war.

I write this perfectly seriously. I have met the Kaiser and spoken to him more than he has to me. He pointed out to me the thing quoted above. He made no comment beyond drawing the Kaiser's attention to the fact that the Kaiser's name was not on the British Navy List. Then he laughed at that laugh which once heard is never forgotten. It was long ago, and in those days he was our dear friend.

Be all this, however, as it may, the Kaiser himself conceived the idea of a powerful German fleet and navy, and largely of "Our future lies on the water."

To his intellectual credit may be placed the fact that he seems to have been the first German to realize that in case of hostilities only warships could safeguard his growing mercantile marine on the high seas.

So far so good. But here the essentially military idea of an impracticable base to work from obsessed both the Kaiser and his advisers, and coincident with naval expansion they proceeded to spend millions of pounds in making our Heligoland into a fortress at least tenfold stronger than necessary and in blisful disregard of the fact which sailors have ever recognized that (save in exceptional circumstances) ships cannot compete with forts. It is simpler to go elsewhere outside the range of fort guns.

The Germans did manage to recognize this, so—having but a small front to the land—very proceeded to put still more and more guns along this front, until at present there are rather more gun positions than spaces in between.

In theory these forts were secret. In practice it is about as easy to build a secret fort of the German pattern (heavily armed, and containing big guns which take a long time to fix up) as it would be secretly to build a big hotel in the centre of London.

In front of these forts they placed "secret mine fields"—about as secret as would be the layout of the hypothetical big hotel in question.

The crowning absurdity was reached with a secret submerged fort armed with torpedoes. One of two of these were installed off Cuxhaven as a further protection to the Kiel Canal.

The exact location of them was, of course, known to everybody interested in knowing. Any tourist could see this defense being placed. I myself watched one being put into position. Whether or not they are still there I do not know. But it really does not matter, for the simple reason that being fixed defenses any attacker would carefully keep clear of them.

Behind all these defenses lies the German fleet. These defenses I call the Kaiser's folly. They must one way and another have cost as much as some of the German fleet, and the necessary auxiliary ships and nearly every farthing an utter waste of money.

There are two things which the Germans overlooked. Of these, the first is that if our fleet keeps the German dreadnoughts in the Kiel Canal, these German dreadnoughts might just as well be there as under the water. They cannot do any mischief in either case.

And the second thing is that to build a lot of dreadnoughts just to lie secure behind impregnable fortifications is merely an expenditure in dreadnoughts suggestive of a lunatic asylum. Of what use the dreadnoughts?

Of course, the Germans trusted to a "Der Tag," when in one way and another they would "attract" have destroyed ends of our dreadnoughts for theirs to be able to come out and offer battle. But here again was sheer folly—an assumption that either the Kaiser or the British navy were born fools unable to think of precautions.

However, it is not for us to complain. Britannia rules the waves, and what the Kaiser's dreadnoughts do behind his vast defenses matters to none of us so long as we keep down in and behind our hermitage on the seas. That these ships could have been nursed for a tiny fraction of the actual expenditure on that nursing, that the money spent on that protection would have produced a fleet capable of meeting ours on numerically equal terms, is not our concern now.

I believe that when the end does come the German fleet will come out, and that its officers and men will do and die heroically.

And somewhere at the bottom of the North Sea will be piled a night and ghastly monument of ships and men, a monument to the fool who could not understand that the massing of the German fleet on the sea and only on the sea out of range of all shore defenses.

Of the actual expenditure on the German sailors will learn to the full the meaning of the phrase, "The Kaiser's folly."

To Study Noxious Weeds

Field Representatives to Meet Inspectors and Councilmen of Saskatchewan

Hon. W. R. Motherwell has arranged for the appointment of six field representatives of the weed and seed branch of the Saskatchewan department of agriculture, who, during the summer months, will travel over the province, meeting municipal weed inspectors and councilors regarding the best methods for enforcement by municipalities of the provisions of the Noxious Weeds Act. The men who have been engaged for this work are: Neil Gilmour, Moose Jaw; Wm. Thompson, Regina; J. S. Naylor, Havelock; and L. E. Kirk, J. M. Tullis and W. E. Walker of Saskatoon.

While it is generally admitted that so long as the present methods of farming are continued, noxious weeds will be a serious problem, it is expected that the influence of these special representatives will bring about a substantial improvement in agricultural methods and tendencies. More meat-producing animals must be raised on grain farms if noxious weeds are to be controlled. This will mean fenced farms, smaller farms, a greater variety of crops and arrier returns.

Sandy MacGregor lived not one hundred miles from Aberdeen. He recently visited London, and on starting his homeward journey found he had lost his pocketbook containing over fifty pounds.

So he telegraphed to the London station, stating his loss, and asking that the book be kept till his next journey south, a month later.

In due course he turned up and the pocketbook was handed over to him. The finder, a young porter, stood by expectantly while Sandy counted his money.

Then the Scot gazed long and searchingly at the clerk in the inquiry office.

"What's the trouble?" asked the latter, anxiously. "Isn't it right?"

"Aye, it's right enough," replied Sandy, sternly. "But what's the month's interest?"—Pit-Bits.

Railway Mileage Increased

Report Presented at Ottawa for Year Ending June 30 Last

The operating mileage of Canadian railways during the fiscal year ended June 30 last increased by 4,787 miles, although eleven months of the year were included in the war period. The mileage now stands at 38,365.

The statistical report of the department of railways, prepared by Mr. John Lambert Payne, comptroller, who tabled in the House of Commons by the Hon. J. D. Reid, acting minister.

It shows mileage increases in all provinces except Prince Edward Island, the heaviest increases being 1,000 miles in Ontario, where the mileage is now 10,703.

Approximately 400 miles were under construction, apart from surveys and projections, when the year ended. Including double tracks, yard tracks, siding and other tracks, all tracks in Canada comes to 45,885.

Railway capitalization increased by $1,027,777, bringing the total up to $1,876,810, including stocks, $847,101,011; consolidated debenture stock (C.P.R.) $176,284,882; bonds, $851,767,222.

There are also outstanding bonds under construction, stocks amounting to $29,257,500 and bonds of $32,224,000.

Stock dividends in 1915 were $32,341,337, an increase of nineteen million.

Lines owned and operated by the government, and which are not capitalized, are covered in the report under statement of cost amounting to $23,542,201.

Cash subsidies given during the year amounted to $5,050,284, of which the Dominion contributed $4,644,664, bringing the total up to $238,331,924. Total authorized guarantee by the Dominion amounted to $188,965,063, and from all sources to $409,869,165.

There was a decrease of 380,245 in the number of freight cars, and 1,189,151 in the tons of freight carried. The average haul was 212 miles, which is the longest in any country.

Vine products led in the various classes of freight, with agricultural products second. Gross earnings fell from $243,683,820 to $199,843,972, a decline of 17.8 per cent. due to the dividend conditions created by the war and following the reduction in the movement in traffic and revenue.

Operating expenses also decreased by $31,234,159. The number of employees was reduced by 15,000, although there was no reduction in the average rates of remuneration, the total salaries and wages bill declined from $111,762,792 to $90,215,787.

The Illusion of Victory

The Business of Germany to Create a False Hope

Napoleon fell through overlooking a vital breach in his armor. It is not difficult to see a parallel in Germany today. The heart of a country is the long and the heart of a nation. This is to be found solely in the heart of a nation. Armies can no longer be detached from the nation. They must be used as a spear must quiver and fall when the civilian shank weakens and wavers. Therein lies Germany's oversight. She did not visualize a long war. She had no comprehension of how the country and its people would react to a long and increasingly stringent blockade. The war-weariness which bites deeply into every heart grows intolerable to German people. The German has lost his seasoning of an enemy's sea supremacy. If the face of the war bears a double look at us, it seems surely so to people who have been encouraged for so long with the promise of speedy victory. Only the irresponsible have held out that hope to the nation. The German has asked upon a war of attrition, it will be to remember that if Napoleon had not been beaten by a beaten without it. When the enemy makes a new advance, we must not take it to mean that he has still a preponderant force. It is his business to produce the illusion of victory; it is ours to win it.—London Nation.

Marketing Wool Product of Sask.

The marketing of wool in Saskatchewan promises to be interesting this year. The wool clip of the province, a branch of the department of agriculture has just circulated all the sheep owners in the province whose names are available, and they will be asked to sell their wool at the year in the previous two years through the co-operative branch.

While the department has, during the last two years, marketed the bulk of the wool clip of this province, the wool clip of the province has been an arrangement with the department by the department this year will be sold by grade. In order to afford the department opportunity to hold the wool for receiving bids, and thus get large prices, advance payments will be sent to wool owners pending sales. The advance price will be a substantial one, and the balance will be sent when the department disposes of the wool.

"I'll have you understand, sir," said the butler, "that I am a self-made man."

"All right, old man," said Robinson. "Now run along home and finish the job, and then I'll talk to you."

CRUEL TREATMENT IS ACCORDED WAR PRISONERS IN GERMAN

SAVAGE DOGS EMPLOYED TO TERRORIZE VICTIMS

Released Medical Officers Bring Harrowing Tales of the Cruelty Of the Fiendish Huns to Prisoners Held in the Wittenberg Camp, and Particulars of Sufferings Endured

The government committee on the treatment in Germany of British prisoners of war, of which the Hon. Mr. Justice Younger is chairman, has just issued a report on the conditions prevailing in the Wittenberg camp during the typhus epidemic of last year. The report is based on information from repatriated prisoners, and especially from Major Priestley, Captain Vidal and Captain Lauder, of the army medical corps, who were sent to the camp shortly after the outbreak of the epidemic, and who were recently released from Germany. The three officers named are the only survivors of six British doctors sent to the Wittenberg camp by the Germans "to take up," says the report, "the place of duty abandoned by their own medical staff when the presence of typhus manifested itself."

The records of the epidemic kept by the British officers were taken from them before their departure from Germany, but the report gives in detail the conditions of the camp and the treatment of prisoners and patients, which the United States ambassador, James W. Gerard, in his report last November, said was "even more unfavorable than I had been led to expect."

According to the released officers there were 15,000 and sometimes more prisoners in the camp, which the committee says "is an enormous population for so restricted an area as ten and a half acres. There were no proper heating arrangements and the men were insufficiently clothed, their overcoats having been taken from them, their other clothing being in rags. Many had neither boots nor socks. There was an insufficient supply of water and food. Major Priestley says he found the men "gaunt, of a peculiar gray palor and verminous."

The supply of food was also insufficient, even in the hospital, until persons arrived from England. "The food was provided for personal cleanliness made for the men," says the report, "was one cupful of soft soap issued at intervals of many days to a man, and for 120 men, consequently, the men became increasingly verminous, and that condition, together with cold and lack of proper nourishment, was undoubtedly the principal inducing cause of the epidemic."

The epidemic broke out in December, 1914. "Thereupon," says the report, "the German staff, military and medical, precipitately left the camp and thereupon until August, 1915, no communication was held between the prisoners and their guards, except by means of directions shouted from the guards or officers remaining outside the wire entanglements."

"All supplies for the men were pushed into the camp, and the medical attention during the whole time was provided by the German staff."

Captain Lauder reports that, while in the bungalow, there was normally one mattress for three men, in the improvised hospitals there being no mattresses at all.

"In consequence," he says, "there were many typhus patients scattered about the camp, and the men were determined not to come into the hospital if they could help it."

In one compound he found 50 hidden cases of typhus during the first month.

The food ration for each patient was half a pint ration (roll) and half a cup of milk per day. The only soup obtainable came from the camp kitchen, and as it was brought in open wooden tubs, it was full of dust and dirt.

"In truth," says the committee's report, "the ration was not a ration at all. It was pretence. It was not even possible to give the patients warm water with their milk."

Four British doctors were infected and three died. It was then Major Priestley and Captain Vidal went to the hospital to join Captain Lauder, who was down with the typhus. Major Priestley says that the German staff, with vermin, lay so close to one another on the floor that he had to stand straddled over them in order to examine them. There were other conditions that are indescribable. It was difficult in obtaining sufficient dress and supplies, for say the doctors, for on a visit to the town they saw an abundant supply of every requisite.

Dr. Aschenbach, who was in charge of the hospital and who, the committee understood, received the Iron Cross for his services in the epidemic, paid only one visit to the camp, according to the report, and that after some order was evolved.

Sixty deaths occurred among the British and the victims were buried outside.

"What the prisoners found hardest to bear in the matter of burial," says the report, "were the jeers with which the coffins were frequently greeted by the inhabitants of Wittenberg, who stood outside the wires, and were permitted to insult the dead."

After the middle of April the conditions commenced to improve and with the arrival of warm weather the cases rapidly decreased, and by the middle of May all the British were convalescent. Adequate provision was made to deal with any future outbreaks, improvements being effected, according to the committee, as a result of the visit of Ambassador Gerard and members of his staff.

The committee condemn the retention of Dr. Aschenbach in the head of the camp and as evidence of his attitude cite an incident. When one of his staff supported the request of Captain Lauder for medical requisites, he curtly refused the request, with the words, "Schwein Engländer."

The report continues: "The cruelty of the administration of the Wittenberg camp became notorious. Savage dogs were habitually employed to terrorize the prisoners, and flogging with a whip was frequent. Men were struck with little or no provocation and tied to posts with hands above their heads."

Captain Lauder reported that many of these men went so far as to look on the typhus, with all its horrors, as a Godsend. They suffered, he reported, to the presence of German guards."

Gain From Cow Testing

Held to be Largely Responsible for Improvement in Quality

The keeping of dairy records was started in Canada about 1901 and at that time the average yield of milk per cow was 2,850 pounds. The number of cows kept in Canada was gradually increasing and so was the milk production. By 1911 the average production had increased to 3,805 pounds per cow, an increase of 340 pounds per cow. This does not seem much but the figures begin to look impressive when we consider the number of cows kept. In 1911 there were 2,534,714 cows, an increase of 185,502 compared with the census of 1901. This increase in the number of cows during the ten years was only 7 per cent, but the total increased production for the same period was 43 per cent.

The keeping and study of records is held to be largely responsible for the improvement in quality and in view of the excellent results it is regrettable that more dairymen do not keep tab on the individual production of their cows. It costs a little in time and money, but it is time and money well invested. Without considering the increased number of cows kept, the increase in milk production during this period to the value of about $25,000,000. This is sufficient to warrant considerable time being spent on testing.

Hog Pastures

Pigs make the cheapest gains on pasture. Trials at the North Dakota Experiment Station have shown that broods sows running on good pasture and nursing litters will do as well with half the feed as those on a half pounds of grain per sow and 100 pounds live weight of sow, as sows in dry lot receiving 2½ pounds grain per day per each 100 pounds live weight. The pasture just about cuts the feed cost in two. The pasture alone does not furnish enough feed for either the brood sow with litter or for the weaned pigs. They should be fed some grain, so as to make a spring pig, in this way the spring pig can be ready for market before real cold weather sets in.

Alfalfa, clover, bromus and winter rye make the earliest pastures. When these have not been provided early spring seedling of such grains as oats and barley or raps are the next best thing.—Farm and Ranch Review.

Little news has emerged into the outer world about the condition of invaded Serbia and the conduct of the invaders. But from information received in Serbian quarters in London it would appear that the exploits of "Kultur" in this unhappy country have been carried out with the same ruthlessness and capriciousness in Belgium and Northern France. The enemy had hardly entered the city of Belgrade when they razed the King Peter's public library and the priceless collections found in the Royal Palace. As soon as the Bulgars had captured Serbian quarters in London they despatched the vice-director of the National Library in Sofia, to seize all valuable books and manuscripts throughout the conquered territory.

A stately old aristocrat, on being requested by a rich and vulgar young fellow for permission to marry his daughter, replied: "Certainly, which would you prefer—the housemaid or the cook?"

Synopsis of important acts.

Of the 53 bills considered at the Fourth Session of the Third Legislature of the Province of Alberta, 32 were introduced as Government bills and 21 as private bills.

The Liquor act will come into force on the 1st day of July 1916

The equal suffrage act gives women the same rights as men in municipal and school acts.

An act to provide administration of lunatics estates will bring this work under supervision of the government instead of being left to Trust Companies.

The Vital Statistics act provides for heavy penalties for neglect or refusal to report births, marriages, deaths or burials within a specified time.

The School Ordinance and Assessment Ordinance has been changed somewhat, also the Truancy act.

Some changes have been made in regards to Municipal Hail Insurance, un-patented homesteads, pre-emptions or purchased homesteads with less than 25 acres under cultivation may be withdrawn before June 1st, and be exempt from hail tax.

Proprietors or owners of pool rooms must not suffer or permit any person under 17 years of age to frequent or loiter about the same.

The Devolution of Estates contains two important amendments:

Where a man dies intestate, leaving a widow and one child only, one half of the property shall belong to each.

If the parents of a child born out of wedlock afterwards marry, such child shall be deemed the legitimate child of such parents.

The Fence Ordinance has been changed to allow a person erecting any wire fence across a trail that has been in constant use for three months immediately previous, to substitute pieces of wood commonly known as "droppers," instead of a top rail where the same is difficult to procure. These droppers must be of the same height, as the fence and not more than six feet apart for a distance of at least two rods on each side of the centre of trail.
